11. 1800 Argyle Project: Request made to Planning to hold file open re: Case # CPC-2007-1178-ZC-HD-CU-CUB-ZAA-SPR pending HUNC review (Hearing March 12th) PLUM supports with the conditions that: the developer seek council office endorsement for permit parking for neighboring residents; NO dance hall license will be issued for the property; Restaurant hours will be limited to 1 a.m. (15 minutes)

David Nix once again went over details about the hotel project:

218 room hotel, entry off of Yucca, would like to bring the idea of there being a sign forward once moratorium is lifted.

Currently planned are 103 parking spaces, which slightly exceeds code up to 148 spaces with attendant parking

19,500 square foot site, so doesn't leave much room for open space

$100,000 will be donated by the developers to the Hollywood Mobil Trust Fund.

Nix noted the concern that employees will park on the street and cause further parking problems

He noted that this project is going to cost close to $80 million so they've spent a lot of time analyzing how parking can be accessed by the employees of the hotel. The greatest demand is at nighttime when all the guests have checked in.

He also noted another main concern – the compatibility of use issue – that this hotel would create noise and general disruption to the neighborhood.

Robert Greene then spoke, explaining the uses of the hotel.

Greene said there would be about 6,000 square feet of meeting space

He said that they really look at use patterns - that the hotel's food and beverage facility is not a primary dinner location, so the lobby area includes a small bar, a small eating area etc. and other eating facilities like Wi-Fi areas to do work.

Likening this hotel to a Marriott Courtyard, he said that the use patterns are very predictable, which includes a valet line that isn't long and not a big buzz of night life. This type of hotel wants its guests to get a good night sleep. In other words, Greene and the developers have the same interests that the neighborhood does.

Greene said that they can more than handle the parking for the project within the project.

Jordan Birnbaum said that for Hollywood and LA, that number is so far from accurate so that's the most troubling thing that he knows of this project.

Susan Swan said she wanted to know the status of the meeting with Henry Chu.

David Nix said that the hearing was held and received unanimous approval

Ira Handelman explained that that was just one hearing and only part of the public process and reminded the board that they've met with PLUM three times to date.

He explained that the commission made the decision and that now it goes before the Council.

Erik Sanjurjo questioned what the City requirement was in terms of parking and if the DOT gives any numbers to be used as a template in terms of parking requirements.

David Schlesinger asked for a little more clarity about the city planning meeting and if there was any conditions or any commentary made.

Ira Handelman said that main concern involved design issues. He said that the parking commission goes for less parking and not more.

Ryan Ole Hass asked for clarification in regards to whether they were the developers or the operators.

Robert Greene clarified that they are the developers but that the developer is the owner. He explained that the operator is really only the management company.

Ira clarified that there are 104 official spots and with stacking there are 150 spots.

Robert Akhavan, owner of the property at 6201 spoke. He said he spoke to Henry Chu the morning of the 12th. So for them to say that the committee had made a decision is not correct. If development is true, honest and sincere, they should allow the committee to have a "say."

Susan Swan asked the developers if Henry Chu had asked (at the hearing on the 12th) if they would agree to a postponement until after the HUNC board meeting on the 16th.

David Nix: There was some discussion about asking for a continuance. That would have been our fourth. We started this process back in November. We felt that it wasn't prudent for us to continue to ask for another continuance. We felt that your voice would be heard at PLUM. This approval rested at City Council. We were four months into this process and looking at another continuance.

Robert Akhavan said that the promises made as far as parking is not accurate and viable. He said he wanted to make sure none of the hotel guests and employees can park on Yucca.

Public Comment:

Merle Singer from the Hollywood Dell Civic Association: He said he's lived in this area for 15 years, gone through a lot of developments and community meetings.

He said that David Nix has certainly come to the HDCA and explained everything

Singer said that there's no question there's an issue about parking but here's a developer who has cooperated. It's unfair that he should be penalized for an overall Hollywood problem, which is lack of parking.

Matthew Freedman, resident:

Developers say it's going to be for business and not for a night crowd but Freedman is concerned about escalating violence/crime/noise. He recounted that a violent act that he had experienced a year ago when he was hit by a 2x4 while out walking.

George Abrahams, Beachwood Canyon Neighborhood Association:

He suggested cooperating with the applicant and that the community should now stand with them.

Travis Maciel: He said a project of this size coming into a residential area is going to take away from the community feel that they have on Yucca St. – that this building will have a lot of negative impacts for a number of years including noise, pollution etc.

Maciel said he doesn't want to live next door to a 16-story hotel and that's not what he signed his lease for.

Steve Tronson, Ramsey Shilling Commercial in Hollywood:

He said he's been in Hollywood a dozen years and that this project will vastly assist the eastern end of the Walk of Fame. We can really electrify that end. I offer my support in that regard. I report to a number of prop owners in this area and just in conversations about hospitality on that end, they all seem to support it.

Ishmael Arredondo: He said 150 people didn't know about this meeting and that a real solution is needed and this is not one.

Oscar Arslanian, from the Hollywood Arts Council and publisher of Discover Hollywood magazine:
NCA Greene came to out to the board meeting and we unanimously supported the project.
Arslanian said that we're blessed in Hollywood that we get a tremendous amount of people that come here, 20 mil people come here annually, but the thing that's missing is hotel rooms. He said this project helps that problem and he supports it.

Annie Miles, resident:
Miles said that if it's an $80 million building, then accommodate the neighborhood.
She said that the people/developers that have spoken here don't live on our street

Terri Gerger: Current vp of Hollywood Dell Civic Association:
Gerger said she was actually in favor of the project because we do believe that we actually need more dev elopement at this end of the boulevard.
As far as parking, Gerger suggested contacting Brian Gallager and start now with a petition for preferential parking.

Katia Kosir:
Kosir said the parking situation – that they just can't have it – that it's getting worse.

Colbert Davis, resident:
The parking concerns are very valid, but the parking problems in the neighborhood will be particularly exacerbated by this project. He mentioned a solution of having permanent parking on Vista del Mar.

Kelly McKay, resident:
McKay said that in theory she's not against a hotel being built in her neighborhood but that this hotel would really aggravate the pre-existing problem of parking.
If this project goes through, something needs to be done with the City about this problem.
If it does go through, 150 spots are not going to cut it.

James Kennish, Argyle Civic Association:
Kennish said he came to speak about the merits of the project. He believes it's an asset to the neighborhood but that tonight makes it obvious that the problem here is parking and the parking is never going to improve until we get permit parking.
Kennish said that in W. Hollywood, it would be un-permittable with out permit parking.
He invited all to come to a meeting of the Argyle Civic Association.

Shaun Frentner: the parking problem defines the neighborhood,

Stuart Hendler, resident:
Parking is a huge problem, but not the hotel's problem. Their problem is going to be shared with us. This is the area we moved into. If this hotel is going to replace a Hollywood crack-dome – I'd pick a hotel, said Hendler.

Dennis Christopher:
Lived on Argyle since mid-70s.
Christopher told those there representing the project that this neighborhood is dying for them to be in it. He suggested they hit it hard with the parking solution. Support the problem and the neighborhood will be on their side 100 percent.

David Nix: on parking, we'd love for this hotel to be the catalyst for permit parking, w/regard to $100,000 Mobi Trust Fund, he said that he sat down with Kelly Bernard and she's assured them that the money will get used for its intended purpose. The $500,000 for the creation of public open space that CRA uses that some where far removed from this project.

Scott Larson for PLUM: we have gotten this project to use in mitigating areas, right now that is a very ugly black building used for drugs.
We adamantly do not want to see another club going in there. And that's why this being a business and tourist hotel was important. This not being a club permit is important. The condition for HUNC approving this is that permit parking will be going in on that street. It will prevent???? people from the boulevard from parking on that street. This will be for the neighbors. There's a lot worse developments that can come through and can be pushed through City Hall and go around us. So we're please that you're trying to work with us and have come here.

Maurece Chesse: He said that preferential parking isn't a magic button. 400 parking spots for 4,000 people. The best way we could contribute is to build a parking structure.

Charles Suhayda: I see both sides of the argument. I believe what I've heard from developer is that is a quality project. I also see that there's a desperate need for parking.

What's really important is what is CRA going to do? What is councilman Garcetti going to do?

Ryan Ole Hass: for our stakeholders, often times this board and our community are circumvented by developers. Using the Ivar lot, some times you can look for parking for 3 to 4 hours. All residential areas littered through commercial space.

Motion: Robert Abrahamian Second: Scott Larson Vote: Yes—5 No—6 Abs—3. Absent—1.

12. Proposed redevelopment of the Pacific Bank Building (Cahuenga & Hollywood) for use as a high-end, boutique hotel with 76 key units, a 132-seat celebrity chef restaurant, lobby, and bar, rooftop pool and cafe, 120 parking spaces, and 2,000 square feet of retail space. The building is included in the natural historic register and historic elements will be refurbished and maintained. PLUM supports with the conditions that: NO dance hall license will be issued for the property and Restaurant hours will be limited to 1 a.m. (20 minutes)

Richard Ravere, resident of Beachwood Canyon and architect
Security Bank Bldg, northeast corner of Cahuenga and Hollywood

We are asking for a letter of approval

The building is currently occupied as an office building, as an architect, this building makes sense as a boutique hotel, 76 to 78 keys (hotel rooms) a notch above the W Hotel going in down the street.

Owner acquired 2 lots to the north, no parking that's visible from the street

Renderings, view off of Cahuenga

Play off of a 1921 building, the glamour of the hey day of Hollywood from the 30s and 40s

Robert Abrahamian: decided on PLUM 'til 1 a.m. in the morn, a little concerned about parking and flow of traffic, but going to work around that, PLUM committee had no problem with this project

Scott Larson: This is the type of project that Hollywood is looking for

Jordan Birnbaum: in favor of, more parking spots than there are hotel rooms, this will not exacerbate the problems

Robert Abrahamian: also removing the club "Sugar"

David Schlesinger: preserving a very handsome old building, most concerned with the neighbors and neighborhood

Public Comment:

Oscar Arslanian: the project was presented to the trustees at the Hollywood Arts Council and the people unanimously approved the project

Steve Tronson: he supports it; it represents improvement to northern parcel, the restoration of a beautiful old building

Tricia La Belle: She called it a magnificent project. She said she was concerned about the parking. She has met with the property owners and the developer and they're really bringing a project that has integrity.

A random comment about was made parking – that if you do the math, they're actually solving the parking problem
